

SEQUENTIAL ORDERING Saves Money

SafestHires has broken the mold once again with its innovative new feature called Sequential Ordering. With this new feature, you no longer have to waste money on drug tests or criminal record searches if a candidate is excluded from consideration at any stage of the background check.

1

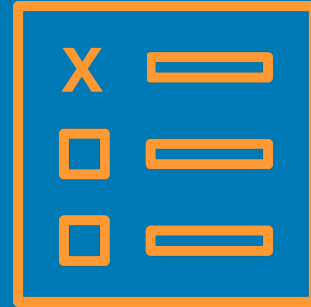

Set up your background checks package with criminal searches and a drug test.

2

Your criminal searches run. If they come back clear, our system recognizes this and then the drug test is automatically ordered.

3

If any criminal searches come back with records, we send you an email notification and give you the choice to continue the order with the drug test or to cancel the order with no charges for the drug test.

You can configure this any way you want. So if you'd rather run the drug test first and it comes back clear, the criminal searches would then automatically run but if the drug test is positive, we will notify you by email and give you the choice to continue the order or cancel it and not incur additional charges.

For companies that have a high hit ratio on criminal searches or a high positives ratio on drug tests - or for companies that just want to be more cost efficient - sequential ordering helps boost your bottom line.

To see how sequential ordering works and other ways that we can make your job easier and save you time and money, join us for a live demo.

Live Demo

Visit us online here or call 1-800-588-1774.